Prison Brenking.

The gift of prison breaking is among the rarest of human gifts. Jack Sheppard, for instance, was born with the genius of escape, and it is unlikely that the best instruction would have improved his genius. The handcuffs which could inclose his wrists were never forged; no wall was ever built that he, stripling as he was, could not batter down, and the barest cell his guardians could prepare always contained whatever materials were needed for his escape. Latude, whose supposed persecution was a support to the French revolution, possessed Jack Sheppard's tal-ent in a less degree. It was rather coolness than ingenuity which enabled him to escape the restraints imposed by a severe government, and the fa-mous rope ladder was not all of his own making. The worst is that, pretty as the gift is, few men of distinction have the opportunity of exercising it. The prison breaker too often blushes unseen because there are no walls for him to scale. But for once talent and oceasion met in Capt. Avlmer Haldane. whose escape from Pretoria is among the most brilliant exploits of the Boer war.-London Spectator.
